SOURCE:

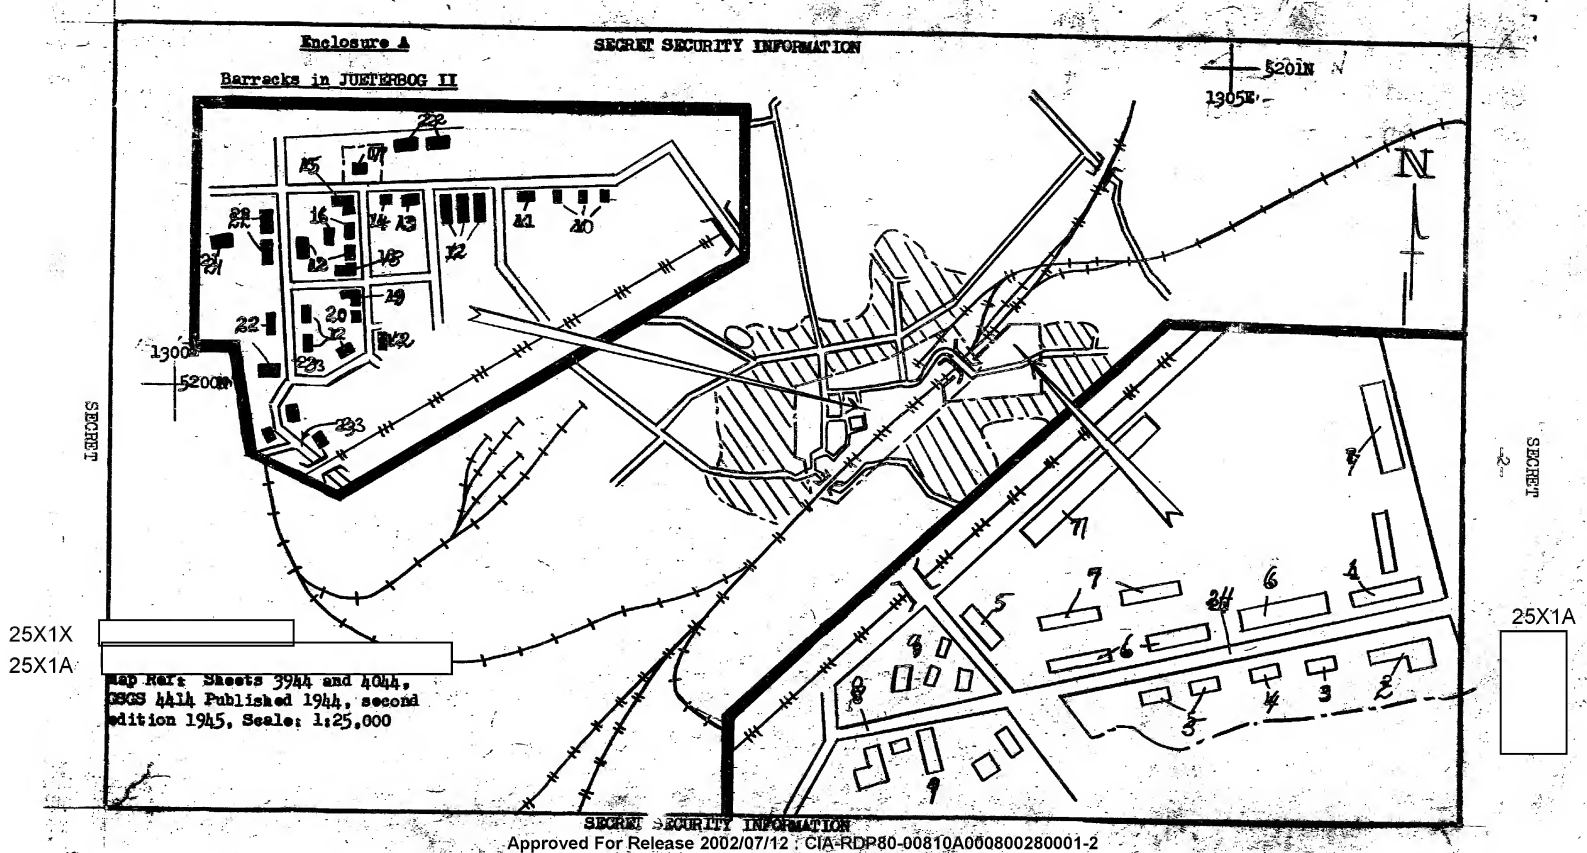

1. I believe that the Jueterbog Kommandatura staff had a commanding officer and one deputy commanding officer. These two officers had a permanent detail of two or three officers and 10 EM, and they were assigned additional patrols from various units stationed in Jueterbog. The patrols checked for drunks and AWOL's, maintained order, and prevented fraternization.
2. Kommandatura patrols were taken only from line units. in Jueterbog was considered a technical unit and did not, therefore, have to detail officers or EM for Kommandatura patrols. 25X1X
3. Bielitz-Heilstaette /5033N-1729E/ had no separate Kommandatura. Colonel (fnu) ZACHAROV, who was CO of the GOFG Hospital there, also performed those duties normally assigned to a head of a Kommandatura. He had a guard section of three or four officers and about 50 EM who were charged with the following tasks: to enforce military courtesy and to correct uniform violations; to patrol towns, bars, cafes, and movies for any drunken personnel; to apprehend personnel who were AWOL and prevent fraternization; to guard the hospital supply rooms; and to man control checkpoints set up for vehicles and pedestrians.
